

The Australasian Society for Philosophy and Psychology 2018

The newly formed Australasian Society for Philosophy and Psychology invites proposals for symposia and papers for its first annual meeting to be held at Macquarie University, Sydney, Australia, 5-7th December, 2018. Submissions are open to anyone with an interest in philosophy cognitive science, or cognate disciplines. Confirmed keynote speakers include Donna Addis (University of Toronto), Peter Godfrey-Smith (University of Sydney), Kate Stevens (Western Sydney University), and Mike Richardson (Macquarie University), with an inaugural Presidential address from John Sutton (Macquarie University).

The Australasian Society for Philosophy and Psychology was formed in 2017 to promote interaction in Australasia among philosophers and psychologists, broadly construed to include anyone interested in scientific study of the mind, and scholars in related fields on issues of common concern (including but not limited to neuroscience, linguistics, computer science, and anthropology).

Symposium Proposals (Now Due April 15, 2018):

Symposia should include 3-5 papers around a common theme, to fit within a 2-hour timeslot. Symposium proposals should be no more than 1500 words and include a title, an abstract for the symposium as a whole, and titles and abstracts for each paper. In addition, and separate to the word limit, please include a brief biosketch for each participant. We particularly encourage symposium proposals in which speakers from distinct disciplinary and/or interdisciplinary backgrounds address a topic of common interest to psychologists and philosophers.

Paper Abstracts (Due April 15, 2018):

Please submit a title and an abstract of 250 words or less, in any area relevant to philosophy, psychology, neuroscience, and cognitive science. Indicate whether you would be willing to present your paper as a poster if it is not accepted for the main program.

Proposals and abstracts should be sent to aspp.submissions@gmail.com, preferably as pdf attachments.
